

Monica Sanchez

Monica is an expert in coalition building, communication, management, and strategic planning. In her career, she serves as a Presidential Political Appointee where she leads large teams, manages budgets, and has experience driving high impact communications and stakeholder campaigns.

Previously, Monica spent eight years working as a congressional staff member for several congressional members and began her career on Capitol Hill as a Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute Public Policy Fellow.

Born and raised in New Mexico, Monica graduated with a B.A. with honors in Ethnic Studies and Education from Brown University.